GREAT MUSICAL EVENT.

Will Be Given at the Lyceum Monday, March 31.

The musical event of Easter week will be the appearance of Madame Schumann-Heink at the Lyceum on Monday, March 31, and it promises to be a musical event which will prove as satisfactory as the concert of last year by this great artist, which was pronounced by all who attended as one of the greatest treats in the musical line we ever enjoyed. It was at the earnest solicitation of many that Mr. Hand engaged her early in the season for this concert.

Never before has so much genuine interest been evinced in the debut of a local artist as is shown in the appearance of Miss Clara Horan, who will be heard the first time in public on this occasion. Her many friends will turn out en masse to greet her. Prof. Theodore Hornberger will appear in a violin solo, and has friends who have received this information with much pleasure as well as the fact that his string quartette, second only to the celebrated Kniesel quartette of Boston, will render two numbers. Isadore Luckstone, known as the finest accompanist in the country, will preside at this concert.

CAUCUS TONIGHT.

Republicans of Common Council Will Select Candidates.

The Republican members of the common council will caucus tonight when candidates for chairman and clerk will be selected. The Republicans have a majority of three in this branch, and should have no difficulty in electing a chairman providing everything is harmonious.

The only avowed candidate for the chairmanship is E. E. Robathan of the Fifth ward who has the pledged support of all the West Side Republican councilmen and who will undoubtedly be selected as the candidate at the caucus.

There are four candidates working tooth and nail for the nomination for clerk. They are James McGinnis, E. R. Conley, Thompson Bean and John B. Gillespie. Conley is said to have the pledges of two Democrats and a number of Republican members that they will vote for him.

At least two of the Republican councilmen are opposed to the election of a separate clerk for the common council and to be consistent will vote at reorganization for Assistant City Clerk Evan Morris. There may be one or two others who may do likewise.

MUCH GLORY FOR SCRANTON

HER SINGERS MADE A FINE SHOWING AT ALLENTOWN.

Even in the Male Chorus Competition the Local Singers Made a Fine Showing Against the Seasoned and Highly Trained Mason Chorus, from Wilkes-Barre, Which Was Awarded the Prize—Great Inconveniences Suffered Going to and Returning from Allentown.

From the experiences of the Scranton, Wilkes-Barre and Taylor singers who attended the Lehigh valley elistedoff Allentown on Monday, it is safe to predict that there will never be another delegation from Northeastern Pennsylvania in attendance at such an event.

No fault is to be found with the reception accorded the visitors by the people of Allentown, nor the treatment received from the gentlemen from Slatington in charge of the elistedoff, but the inconveniences of travel suffered in going to and from there was enough to discourage the most enthusiastic.

The special train of ten cars, carrying nearly six hundred excursionists, left North Scranton at 6 o'clock in the morning, expecting to cover the 102 miles to Allentown inside of four hours. Owing to the recent floods the railroad was rendered unsafe at many points, and special precautions were necessary.

The result was that the excursionists did not arrive in Allentown until nearly 11:30 o'clock, too late for the morning session of the elistedoff. Along the Lehigh river many bridges were seen which had been swept away by the floods, and evidences of devastation were apparent on all sides.

CROSSED RIVER IN BOATS.

The regular train, which leaves Scranton at 7:30 o'clock, overtook and passed the special train long before the latter reached Allentown. The passengers on the regular train for Allentown were compelled to leave the train at East Allentown and cross the Lehigh river in rowboats to reach the city proper, the bridge at that point having been washed away.

The special train was run into Allentown proper, but about two hours late, and none of the Scranton singers were able to enter the morning competitions.

Had it not been for the Northeastern Pennsylvania delegation the elistedoff would have been a decided failure, but fortunately (for the promoters) it proved to be a musical and financial success. The singing was among the best ever heard in an elistedoff, and with one or two exceptions, the adjudications were satisfactory.

Scranton talent carried off the honors in the individual and two-part competitions, and were successful in everything except the chorus competition and the tenor solo. The novel event of the day was the state-splitting contest, which is the first of its kind ever introduced in an elistedoff in the United States.

EXCELLENT SINGING.

According to the most competent critics, the male party singing and solo work was the best ever heard in an American musical festival, and the victory won by the Dr. Mason Glee club of Wilkes-Barre, places that organization at the head of the Welsh-American glee clubs. Their rendition of "Pilgrim's Chorus" was elevating, inspiring and in keeping with the audience's conception of what they should be.

The solo rendition of the prayer by Gwilym Miles, of New York, was the best ever heard in competition by the Scranton people. The work of Harri Jones, John W. Jones and John T. Watkins was also of a very high order.

The adjudicator did not assign the relative positions of the other three parties in competition until requested to, and then he simply put: Dr. Mason's, first; Oxford's, second; North Scranton, third, and Taylor, fourth.

When it is considered that the Wilkes-Barre party has been in existence several years, and have competed and won on the same selection several times, it is not to be wondered at that they carried off the honors, assisted as they were by the best solo obtainable.

LESS THAN A YEAR OLD.

The Oxford Glee club was organized less than a year ago, for competition at Lake Lodore last Labor day, and forty per cent of the party never sang before Monday in competition. In that event they were second, and at North Scranton last Monday they were first.

The North Scranton party is also a comparatively young organization, but composed of more seasoned material, with much more experience. They were victorious at Lake Lodore, but lost at North Scranton and Allentown.

The Taylor party was augmented at Allentown by many Slatington singers, but lacked sufficient rehearsal, and the pick of the best singers from the three local societies, under the direction of a trained leader, they would doubtless give the Wilkes-Barre party a closer competition, and perchance defeat them.

In The Tribune report yesterday were two mistakes, due to the telegraph and not to the correspondent. The first was in giving credit to Hayden Morris instead of John T. Watkins in leading the combined choirs in the singing of "Huddersfield," and the other was in the report of the competition on the recitation "Keeping His Word."

PRIZE DIVIDED.

This prize was divided between Mrs. D. B. Thomas, of West Scranton, and her niece, Miss Allan Price, of Taylor. The other competitor, a little 10-year-old girl named Mary Smith, of Lansford, was given a special prize of $3.75 for the excellent manner in which she recited.

Particular mention should be made of the singing of Miss V. Jones, and Mrs. Frank Brundage, and the recital of Mrs. Thomas, all of whom were particularly criticized and complimented by the adjudicators.

The mixed chorus competition was not up to the usual standard, the

HENRY A. KINGSBURY.

Died Yesterday at His Home on Madison Avenue of Congestion of the Brain.

HENRY A. KINGSBURY.

Henry A. Kingsbury died at his residence on Madison avenue yesterday morning at 10 o'clock, of congestion of the brain.

Mr. Kingsbury was born at Montrose on the 10th day of December, 1830, and removed with his parents in his infancy to Honesdale, Wayne county, Pa., where he resided until December, 1848, when he came to Scranton, then known as Harrison, the chief enterprise of which was the Lackawanna Iron works, owned and controlled by the firm of Scanton & Platt, in whose employ he entered the store department.

In 1853 this firm was merged into the corporation known as the Lackawanna Iron and Coal company. He continued in the employ of this company until April, 1857, when he accompanied Selden T. Scanton to Oxford Furnace, N. J., to take charge of the stores connected with the mines and furnace, belonging to G. W. & S. T. Scanton.

After the Oxford Iron company succeeded to the business of this firm, he became secretary and general purchasing agent of the company and served as such until 1875, when he returned to Scranton and never made general store-keeper of the Lackawanna Iron and Coal company, succeeding J. C. Platt in that position. He resigned in March, 1890, and assumed control of the store connected with the Scanton Steel company. His successful management of the business was known upon the consolidation of the Lackawanna Iron and Coal company with the Scanton Steel company, forming the corporation known as the Lackawanna Iron and Steel company.

Mr. Kingsbury was always a strong Republican, but never entered into politics to any extent, although he acceptably served the Seventeenth ward of this city on the school board for twelve years, of which he was president for two terms. He was also secretary of the Scanton Board of Trade for two years. At the time of his death he was the senior member of the firm of Kingsbury & Scanton.

Mr. Kingsbury was a man of unimpeachable integrity of character, kind-hearted and generous. His honorable business methods, his frank and genial manner, won for him many friends in this city and wherever he was known. He was married in Scranton October 6th, 1857, to Miss Sarah R. Hutchinson, daughter of N. E. Hutchinson, one of the pioneers of Scranton. He is survived by his wife and the following children: Edward F. Kingsbury, of Toledo, Ohio; Mrs. Edward Allen, of Worcester, Mass.; Frederick H. Selden H. May and Grace, of this city.

Funeral will be held from his residence, 313 Madison avenue, on Thursday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

Don't Read This—It's An "Ad."

Every one knows coffee keeps people awake nights, causes dyspepsia, constipation and nervous troubles. No sensible person lets their children drink coffee. "COFO" on the other hand greatly benefits and often cures dyspepsia, constipation, nervous disorders and insomnia; is especially good for mothers while nursing their children.

It costs one-half as much as coffee, tastes like it and can be used beneficially even by a baby. What more do you want?

MYSTERY OF A FATAL SIGNAL

CONFLICTING STORIES OF THE WITNESSES.

Footmen in the Shaft Swear They Did Not Give It and Further That It Was Not Given. While the Headman, with Equal Positiveness Swears the Signal Was Given and That It Came from the Shaft—Jury Unable to Agree as to Which Side Errs.

Testimony from sixteen witnesses, given last night in the court house, before the coroner's jury, only heightened the mystery as to the primal cause of the death of William Ord, the boy who fell ninety-five feet down the Hyde Park shaft a week ago yesterday.

Ord was working as a footman, with two others in the middle vein of the three veins that are operated. He was tugging at a car that did not set squarely on the carriage, while the other two footmen were adjusting the blocks, which hold it in place. Suddenly the carriage started up. Ord clung to an iron rail with both hands, which was clamping, and was drawn up with the carriage about six feet, when he let go and fell to the bottom of the shaft, sustaining fatal injuries.

The two men who were working with him declare that they did not give the signal to hoist and that it was not given by anyone else in the shaft, at any of the landings, because there was no disturbance of the wire, which is pulled to convey the signal to the "head."

Those working in the vicinity of the "head" in one of the other two veins, likewise declare that the signal was not given by them or by anyone else in their respective veins.

SIGNAL WAS GIVEN.

The three headmen and the docking boss positively aver that someone in the mine gave the signal. It is the duty of one of the headmen to receive the signals and transmit them to the engineer. One of the three, who transmitted the signal in question, says he not only heard the "rapper," but saw the indicator point out the signal. The other three men at the head corroborate him in this.

Frank Evans and John Leonard, the two men who were working with Ord in the middle vein state, according to support their claim that they did not give the signal, that as soon as the carriage started up, Evans jumped for the signal wire and signalled to stop the carriage for fear the unblocked car would run off and catch in the bunting.

The carriage was stopped. The headmen and engineer corroborate the story of the sudden signal for the stoppage of the carriage. Evans, whose duty it was to give the signals, because the wire was on his side of the shaft, told that he was working at the lever, which adjusts in the shaft, when the carriage made a sudden start. From the position he was in, it was impossible, both he and Leonard testified, to reach the signal wire.

John H. Jones, a company hand, who was sitting about thirty feet away, corroborated Evans and Leonard.

Elmer Carlson, John H. Jeffreys and Daniel Coleman, the footmen in the lowest vein, testified that they were the only persons about the foot when Ord's body came tumbling down the shaft, and that at this particular time all three of them were at a point between forty-five and fifty feet from the foot "stackening" a trip that had become "stretched" on a branch.

McGINTY'S TESTIMONY.

John McGinty, a driver boy, whose testimony was given in a manner that carried conviction of its accuracy, told that he was the only person in the top vein in the vicinity of the "rapper" at any time within an hour or more of the accident. From the chambers to which he was delivering empties he could see a light at the foot. There was no light seen there or thereabouts. He did not go to the foot and did not know of the accident until the signal sounded for "at ease."

Andrew Huko, Andrew Bendorick and Mike Chivida, the three headmen, agreed that signals were never given by them until they received them from down the shaft, and it was impossible for them to make a mistake, because, in addition to hearing the "rapper," they could see the indicator, and invariably verified the "rapper" by looking at the indicator. They remembered this particular signal because of the fact that it was followed almost immediately by another calling for the stopping of the carriage.

John Lukate, the docking boss, whose station is also at the "head," was only ten feet away from the headmen when the signal in question was received and transmitted, and he swore positively that he not only heard the "rapper" sound the signal to hoist, but saw the indicator point to the same thing.

Engineer John Merchant said he could hear the "rapper" at the head, and received his signals from it when there were no men working up in the head house. He could not remember that he had heard the "rapper" on this occasion. He was not paying any attention to it, as he was receiving his signals from the men in the head house.

Attorneys Reese and Oliver, representing the company and the Ord family respectively, and Mine Inspector Prytherick, who ordered the inquest to be held, asked some few questions of the witnesses, when Coroner Saltry concluded his examinations.

The jury rendered a verdict to the effect that it was impossible for them to figure out where the signal had come from, under the conflicting testimony.

The jurors were W. T. Simpson, John J. Coyne, Patrick Boland, James Maloney, Thomas Cosgrove and Joseph Murphy.

Have you any of the following symptoms: backache, frequent urinating, fluttering of the heart, nausea, vomiting, a dry, harsh skin, fever coated tongue, extreme thirst, fickle appetite, acid bitter taste, deposit of mucus after urination, sour stomach, dropsical swelling, loss of memory, scalding sensations, and constipation?
